InterAct Public Safety and EJustice Solutions Join Forces

Combination creates first full suite of multi-agency, multi-discipline products designed with Software as a Service (SaaS) architecture.

Winston-Salem, NC - September 15, 2011 - InterAct Public Safety announced today the acquisition of EJustice Solutions. According to InterAct CEO John McNulty, "This combination of technologies provides the next generation of both highly scalable and highly flexible public safety products for Computer Aided Dispatch (CAD), Records Management Systems (RMS) and Mobile. It enables public safety agencies to save money without compromising their ability to protect and serve their communities. These well-proven technologies have already delivered huge efficiencies and savings in the private sector, and InterAct is taking a leadership position in applying them to public sector incident response."

Tom Thomas, CEO of EJustice Solutions concurred, "The concept of Cloud computing and Service Oriented Architecture is defining the future direction of application software. Both companies see our collective technologies as the key ingredients in providing our clients with scalable, cost-effective capabilities for the future."

EJustice Solutions specializes in Records Management Systems that enable public and private safety agencies and jurisdictions to effectively record, file, access and report records related to all information relevant to an incident or event.

According to Thomas, "The synergy and the shared commitment of our work forces, along with our unique technology, make this a big win for our customers and our employees."

McNulty added, "Both of our companies consist of people who have lived, worked and dedicated themselves to public safety and the incident-response market. That experience and commitment provides InterAct with a great foundation to meet and exceed the needs of our expanding customer base. In the final analysis our new combination will be judged on how efficiently and effectively we meet customer needs. They are our focus and we will be in close contact with current and prospective clients to make sure we're delivering the capabilities they need to fulfill their responsibility to the public."
